FRANK SHEAFER ELECTROCUTED

Gettysburg Boy Working for Lancaster Electric Light Company Comes in Contact with High Tension Wire.

Frank Sheaffer, of North Washington street, was instantly killed at nine o'clock this morning while working as a lineman with an electric light company in Lancaster. He went to work on the line for the first time about seven o'clock and two hours later met his death.

Mr. Sheaffer was working on a pole along the New Holland pike not far from Lancaster when he came in contact with a high tension wire, death resulting instantaneously.

Mr. Sheaffer had been spending some time recently at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Sheaffer on North Washington streets but on Monday went with his brother, Bruce, to Lancaster where they secured work with their brother, Charles Sheaffer, who was night foreman at the Conestoga Electric Light Company plant.

He lived in Gettysburg during the early years of his life but had not been home for some time until his recent visit. He served in the United States Army and was also a resident of Philadelphia for some time. He was aged 23 years.

Surviving are his parents, four brothers, Bruce, Charles, George and William, and two sisters, Mary and Virgie.

Funeral from the 10.10 train over the Western Maryland railroad Thursday morning.

ARENDTSTADT

Arendtstad, Oct. 12.—On Sunday, October 16th, at 10 o'clock in the morning the Reformed Sunday School will observe Rally Day. An interesting programme will be rendered. Prof. Roy D. Knouse, principal of the Abbotstown High School, and a son of the congregation, and Rev. J. S. Hartman, superintendent of the Hoffman Orphanage of Adams county, will deliver addresses. A cordial welcome to all. Jacob Yoke, of near this place, reports corn 14 feet, 8 inches tall.

Mrs. Ida Crum, of this place, has a hen's egg 8 inches in circumference lengthwise and 6 1-2 inches around.

The excellent rains we had last Thursday and Saturday have put the ground in good condition for the late fall seeding.

Rev. D. T. Koser and Allen B. Trostle, as delegates, are attending the Lutheran Synod held in Mechanicsburg this week.

Sterling Walter, of Aspers, spent a few days at the home of Jacob Klepper last week.

Ephraim Sheely is visiting his son, Dr. C. A. Sheely, in Harrisburg.

Messrs. Harry and Willis Wagner left last week for Los Angeles, California, where they expect to get employment.

Arbin Carbaugh and wife, Edward S. Orner, wife and daughter, Emory E. Sheely, wife and daughter, Miss Edna Witmore, N. L. Minter, wife and three children, Miss Ella M. Klepper, Edwin Roberts and sister, Mary, attended the York fair.

Rev. P. E. Stockslager, wife and two children, are visiting at the home of Rev. D. T. Koser, in this place.

Mrs. A. Laura Pettis has just returned from the city with a nice assortment of fall millinery goods.

Miss Blanche Bushey is visiting relatives in Altoona.

Messrs. Milton E. Hartman and Rush Myers have gone to Bert, New York, to pack apples.

TEACHERS' MEETING

The teachers of Hamilton and Conewago Independent Districts held their first educational meeting at Green Ridge School house, Oct. 7th. All the teachers were present and took an active part in the discussion of educational topics. The meeting was well attended by directors, parents and pupils who manifested great interest in the work. The teachers report the schools in a prosperous condition, with a good attendance and high percentage of scholarship.

ROSS-BROWN

Robert H. Ross, of Mechanicsburg, son of James Ross, of Newville avenue, and Miss Anna G. Brown, of Lancaster, were married Tuesday noon in Lancaster. After a wedding trip to southern cities Mr. and Mrs. Ross will reside in Mechanicsburg where Mr. Ross is connected with the Second National Bank.

TOWN COUNCIL HOLDS MEETING

Borough Fathers Discuss Unpaid Electric Light Bill and Proposed Change to West Middle Street at Adjourned Meeting.

At an adjourned meeting of the Town Council held on Tuesday evening a large part of the time was taken up with a discussion of the proposed change in the course of West Middle street which was presented to the Council last week on request of Captain Gilbert.

Mr. Codori, chairman of the committee appointed to investigate the matter, reported that the committee deemed that the expense and trouble involved in changing the course would not be justified by the results to be gained. Captain Gilbert appeared before Council and explained at length what he wanted and why he wanted it with the result that Council decided to visit the place with the borough surveyor, Mr. Bingham, and then to take action on the request. Captain Gilbert stated among other things that under his plan the road would not run through the Good and Stahley houses.

J. L. Williams, Esq., appeared before the Council in behalf of the Gettysburg Lighting Company asking an adjustment of the August bill. Council has never agreed to pay anything for the tungsten lights for that month claiming they were not up to specification. After much discussion the Light Committee was instructed to have a conference with Mr. Turner and adjust the matter.

Borough Solicitor Wible handed to Council an opinion regarding the proposed crossing of the Western Maryland railroad at Factory street, telling of the difficulties of crossing at grade and outlining what would have to be done in case a crossing was to be constructed either overhead or underground.

An ordinance was presented covering the proposed uniform curb throughout the town but no action was taken on it and it was held over to a meeting to be held Friday evening.

GETTYSBURG BOY ADVANCES

The Trenton, New Jersey, Gazette, says of J. F. Rummel, son of J. F. Rummel of Carlisle street: "After having been connected with the Daniel Block Clothing Company in this city for four years as advertising manager and salesman, J. F. Rummel, who is well known about the city, will leave Monday for New York City where he will become an employee of Gimbel Brothers as assistant clothing buyer. The new position comes to Mr. Rummel without solicitation, the ability and qualifications of the young man having become communicated to the Gimbel firm, which was followed by the offer of the position with that concern."

DIED OF BLOOD POISONING

David Bortner, son of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Bortner, of Reading township, died on Monday, October 10, from lockjaw, aged 7 years, 7 months and 27 days.

Ten days ago the boy tramped upon a corn knife with his left foot, from which blood poisoning and later lockjaw developed. He is survived by his parents.

LOCAL GUARD COMPANY NEWS

Things Look Hopeful for Entrance into National Guard of Pennsylvania Next Year. No Appropriation at this Time.

The following letter from Adjutant General Thomas J. Stewart of the National Guard of Pennsylvania to Congressman D. F. Lafean points hopefully to the admission of the Gettysburg company to the Pennsylvania division within the next year.

Harrisburg, October 7.

My dear sir,

I am in receipt of yours of October 1st, forwarding a petition signed by captain, first and second lieutenants of a temporary military company formed at Gettysburg, Pa., and also by citizens of Gettysburg, all relating to the admission from the town of Gettysburg of a company of infantry to the National Guard of Pennsylvania.

Replying at this time I beg to say that no new organizations will be admitted to the National Guard of Pennsylvania, prior to June 1, 1911, as the appropriation made for the maintenance of the National Guard did not contemplate the admission of new organizations, except one troop of cavalry, which was organized when the present appropriation was made and the arrangements for admission were all complete, and which troop of cavalry has since been admitted and made part of the National Guard.

The Adjutant General is fully conversant with the desires of the people of Gettysburg, for the admission of a company of infantry from that town and would be, personally, very glad to have a company admitted, provided it was composed of a good personnel, and the town could provide it with proper armory facilities, which no doubt would be the case, and therefore, it would seem unnecessary at this time to have any commission visit Harrisburg for the purpose of urging the admission of this company.

If it can be found after June 1, 1911 that a company can be taken into the National Guard of Pennsylvania from the town of Gettysburg, the Adjutant General will take the matter up, personally, with the parties interested and see what can be done.

Very respectfully,
Thos. J. Stewart,
Adjutant General.

LUTHERAN SYNOD

The West Pennsylvania Lutheran synod opened its annual convention in Trinity Lutheran church, Mechanicsburg, the Rev. E. D. Weigle, D. D., pastor, Monday evening, when the sermon was preached by the Rev. Dr. J. B. Wolf, Glen Rock, the president of the body. The Rev. Albert Bell, of York, is treasurer of the synod and will present an encouraging report on the amounts contributed by the various congregations for missions, Louisville orphans' home and other benevolent causes of the denomination.

Wednesday evening is set aside for the ordination service; the sermon being preached this year by the Rev. Dr. Adam Stump, of York.

The synod covers a territory of four counties only: York, Adams, Franklin, Cumberland and one pastorate in Fulton county. It has a confirmed membership of over 350,000 persons, with a Sunday school membership of 36,583. There are 96 ministers; 82 pastorates and 155 congregations.

EXPLANATION

The article published in the Compiler of October 6th, entitled "Aftermath of Dedication" referring to the "Commission" as having "bungled," does not refer to the Gettysburg National Park Commission, but to the Pennsylvania Memorial Commission. The Gettysburg National Park Commission had nothing to do with the construction nor with the dedication of the Pennsylvania memorial structure nor with any of the arrangements connected with its dedication.

COLLEGE BOYS' CELEBRATION

Make Good Showing in Foot Ball Game with Carlisle Indians and Hold Night Parade with Bon Fire and Speeches.

The fact that the Gettysburg College foot ball team scored on the Carlisle Indians and, in addition, held them to an unusually low score was the cause for an old time demonstration of the students on Tuesday evening, a parade in "evening costume" being held through town and further ceremonies taking place after the return to the college campus.

The game which was played at Carlisle resulted in a score of 29 to 3. Other teams from rival schools such as Bucknell, Ursinus, Lebanon Valley and others have gone down to defeat by larger scores and have failed to tally any points on their own account so that the boys at the local institution had some provocation for Tuesday night's carrying on.

The usual garb of pajamas and night gowns appeared conspicuously in the parade and as the white robed figures marched through town to the accompaniment of various songs and noises from instruments more or less musical they presented quite a picturesque sight. The team was met at the nine o'clock train in the approved fashion and then the houses of the various college professors were visited and the students heard short talks from their teachers on the good work of the team.

A small bon fire in front of the old dormitory added to the celebration on the campus and it was several hours before the demonstration came to a close after which all retired to dream over future gridiron victories.

LOCAL GLEANINGS

S. D. Reck, of Baltimore street, is spending several days in Mechanicsburg attending synod.

J. Donald Swope, Esq., has been spending the past few days with friends in New York.

Dr. D. R. Hartman was a Gettysburg visitor Tuesday. Dr. Hartman and family leave Littlestown tomorrow for Liberty, New York, where they will make their future home.

Major Cannon, who made many friends in Gettysburg during the man-eater camp in July has been detailed to service in the Philippines.

Miss Helen Himes, of New Oxford, was a Gettysburg visitor today.

Mrs. David C. Burnite is spending some time at the home of Dr. and Mrs. E. S. Breidenbaugh on Carlisle street.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Young, of Easton, are guests at the home of Dr. and Mrs. G. D. Stahley on Seminary Ridge.

MRS. AMELIA HOWE

Mrs. Amelia Howe, widow of William R. Howe, died at the York County Home, at 2 p. m. Monday, Oct. 10, aged 73 years and 8 months.

The deceased was a Miss Pierson, of Abbotstown, and was married in 1859 to Mr. Howe, of Hanover, who died 27 years ago. She is survived by two sons, one daughter, one sister, and one brother.

The remains were taken to Hanover and removed to the home of her son, J. B. Howe, from where the funeral was held at 2 p. m. today. Services at the house and interment in Mt. Olivet cemetery. Rev. S. P. Remer, of Grace United Evangelical church, officiating.

CHESTNUTS SCARCE

While the warm weather early in the Spring was responsible for luxuriant vegetation of almost every sort and produced large fruit crops, it evidently did not benefit the chestnut trees very much and this fall they are scarcer than ever. Chestnut nuts report failure in securing the nuts in any quantities, and even though this is not always a very good sign, as many times the gathering of chestnuts is a minor consideration, the farmers' reports are to the same general effect.

The Ladies Aid Society of Mt. Tabor will serve an oyster supper on Saturday evening, October 15th, in the old church. Various refreshments will be served.

BIGLERVILLE'S NEW FACTORY

Upper End Town will Get Condensed Milk Factory. Building to be Started Next Week. Will Wholesale and Retail Products.

Biglerville is to have a new industry in the shape of a condensed milk factory which is to be built this month and which will be put into operation as soon as possible.

The Hershey Creamery Company of Harrisburg has secured a half acre of land on the east side of the railroad south of the Bigham hardware store and will begin the construction of a building there next week. It will be pushed through to completion at as rapid a rate as possible.

It is the plan of the company to receive milk from the entire section for which Biglerville is the shipping point and it is said they will be able to handle all the milk they can secure from that section. In addition to the manufacture of condensed milk they will also make butter. Both will be made for wholesale and retail trade.

The number of employees at the opening of the factory will not be large but, should the business merit it, the force will be increased.

BARLOW

Barlow, Oct. 12.—Again the autumn season has arrived. The farmers of this section have finished cutting corn and are now busily engaged in husking and in finishing sowing grain.

John W. Epley and family who recently spent several days with relatives in Harrisburg, have returned home.

Charles and Mary Black spent Sunday at New Chester.

The candidates for the various county offices are making the usual canvass of this community at this time.

The very welcome rain on Saturday has caused the already sowed grain to spring up very rapidly.

Services at Mt. Joy next Sunday at 2.00 p. m.; Sunday School at 1 p. m.; Christian Endeavor at 7.15.

YANKEE DOODLE BOY

Tuneless music, a wealth of new hits, an intensely interesting story full of sunshine, laughter and love, are all bespoke for the "Yankee Doodle Boy," Powell and Cohan's musical play which will be the attraction at the Walter Theatre next Thursday, October 20. "Bad Hicks," nicknamed "The Yankee Doodle Boy" is the central figure. He is slinky but you love him from the moment he makes his first appearance, he is so typically American. Bad's long suit is making love and he tries the effect of his fatal beauty as he expresses it, on every pretty girl he meets. Finally, however, he encounters his affinity in the form of Miss Truly Spencer of Downer's Grove, N. J. and its "all off" with Bud, the biter is bitten. He falls desperately in love, but Truly is a tease and keeps him guessing. The song hits are all new this season, last season's tuneless music having all been discarded, as Messrs. Powell & Cohan are determined that the "Yankee Doodle Boy" shall continue to be the best musical play touring the country.

HISTORIC CHURCH LIGHTED

The beautiful and historic Church of the Sacred Heart at Conewago, has been supplied with 500 incandescent lights and they were consecrated at the service on Sunday evening. There was a large and appreciative congregation present. Rev. Father Kohl is to be congratulated on his energetic work in securing this great improvement in Conewago. Rev. Father Manus preached an eloquent sermon, comparing the present with the past in the many advancements made by science. He asked the continued co-operation of the people with their good and generous pastor. The church is reached by trolley cars.

The Famous Rayo

Gives the Best Light at Any Price

When you pay more than the Rayo price for a lamp, you are paying for extra decorations that cannot add to the quality of the light. You can't pay for a better light, because there is none. An oil light has the least effect on the human eye, and the Rayo Lamp is the best oil lamp made, though low in price. You can pay $5, $10, or $20 for some other lamp, and although you get a more costly lamp, you can't get a better light than the white, mellow, diffused, unflattering light of the low-priced Rayo.

Has a strong, durable shade-holder. This season's burner adds to the strength and appearance. Made of solid brass, nickel-plated, and easily polished.

Aviator Who Tried to Fly From Chicago to New York.

LONE RACE OFF

Airship Flight From Chicago to New York Abandoned.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—The lone "race" from Chicago to New York, which Aviator Ely started last Sunday and in which he covered only about two miles, was called off officially.

Ely's machine is still reposing near Stiegelitz Park, a suburb of West Chicago, where he alighted after an eleven-mile trip. While a crowd of about 5000 people gathered about the airship, hoping to see him continue his journey, the aviator was in his room at a hotel asleep. He received a telegram from Glenn H. Curtiss, saying the necessary parts for his machine couldn't be obtained.

KEEP CLOSE GUARD OVER KING MANUEL

Portuguese Suspect Arrested at Gibraltar.

Gibraltar, Oct. 12.—It is reported that a suspicious looking Portuguese, who arrived direct from Lisbon, has been arrested, and that since the arrest special precautions have been taken to guard King Manuel.

It is understood that King Manuel altered his decision to go to Villa Manrique in consequence of representations made by Spain. The government at Madrid feared that if he visited there just now his presence would stir up the Spanish republicans.

King Manuel before leaving Portugal wrote to Premier Sousa saying: "I am compelled, owing to stress of circumstances, to embark, but I wish to inform the people of Portugal that my conscience is clear. I have always acted faithfully as a Portuguese and have done my duty. I shall always remain whole heartedly Portuguese. I hope my country will do me justice and try to understand my feelings."

"My departure is not by any means to be regarded as an act of abdication."

PROMOTION FOR PEARY

Age Retirement of Captain White Moves Arctic Explorer Up

Washington, Oct. 12.—Commander Robert E. Peary, the Arctic explorer, will be promoted to the rank of captain in the corps of naval engineers on Oct. 20 as the result of the retirement of Captain U. S. G. White, on account of age. Orders to this effect were issued at the navy department.

Rear Admiral John B. Milton, commandant of the naval training station at San Francisco, also will be placed on the retired list on Oct. 20.

Shot Girl, Killed Self.

Baltimore, Oct. 12.—Following a quarrel in a tenderloin resort in this city, Della Pusey, twenty-two years old, was shot and fatally wounded by an unidentified white man, who afterward killed himself. A tag on a key ring found in the man's pocket had the stamp of a store at 20 Washington street, Jamaica, L. I.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by Dr. J. C. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. FIRE VICTIMS PRAY FOR DEATH

Tales of Suffering Brought From Forests by Refugees.

1000 DEAD AND MISSING

Burned Area is Thirty-six Miles Wide and Some of the Victims May Never Be Found.

Rainy River, Ont., Oct. 12.—J. A. Mathieu, manager of the Rainy River lumber industry, estimated that not more than 100 lives have been lost in the forest fires in this section.

Mr. Mathieu bases his estimate on reports received from investigating parties who have been over the burned area. He places the total financial loss at about $5,000,000. The total dead are placed at 300; missing, 700.

At various points in the forest fire zone between Warroad, Minn., and Rainy River reports to fire rangers indicate 139 bodies located. Of these 90 have been recovered, but only 80 identified.

While fires can be seen to the east and southeast, their progress is not dangerous to human life.

Heat Kills Rescuers.

Fire rangers here complain that the heat of the surface and gases arising therefrom prevent their proceeding far into the masses of charred tree limbs and burned underbrush. The air in the devastated district is still smoky and no further attempt will be made to locate bodies until further reinforcements and relief are secured.

Five nurses, a doctor, fifty cots and provisions have reached here from Winnipeg.

Ed Smith reports the safety of a number of the Rapid River homesteaders.

The Sorrenson family of nine remained in the center of their big clearing and escaped.

Prayed For Death.

Robert McInnis, his son John, a hired man and a German neighbor were twelve hours in the water. In speaking of his experience McInnis said:

"As I lay in the water with a blanket over my head, the strong wind carried stones in the air. They pierced the blanket and wounded my face. The air was full of fire. I prayed that I might die before the fire would burn me."

A trio of brave rescue workers, who have been in the burned woods now for three days are Jim Ramsey, Bill Fay and "White Pine" Tom. They are famous woodsmen.

The burned area is at least thirty-six miles wide and many of the settlers are new to the country and comparatively unknown locally. Much of this land was thrown open to homestead entry this summer, and many of the settlers have gone in far beyond the woods, where they had only a path to reach their place. It may be many months before they are discovered and some of them may never be found.

Trees have fallen in a tangle, so that it is almost impossible to travel any distance with any kind of a burden and a sick or injured man could not help himself.

GOVERNOR OFF TO FIRE

Cancels All Political Dates and Will Remain a Week.

Bemidji, Minn., Oct. 12.—"Minnesota has had a ghastly lesson," said Governor Eberhardt. "The loss of life appalls one, while as a lesson in finance, the property loss, the destruction wrought in our forests, will stand as a convincing argument when the legislature meets next January."

The loss sustained in the present disaster is more than enough to have insured proper fire protection for the entire state of Minnesota for the next fifteen years.

Governor Eberhardt passed through Bemidji in a special train, and with him two cars of provisions and twenty-eight militiamen, who are going to help in keeping order and distribute supplies.

Governor Eberhardt said that he had canceled all of his political engagements and would stay in the fire region for at least a week.

100-Year-Old Farmer, Dead.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Oct. 12.—Joshua Roselle of Wyoming, eight miles from here died at the age of 100 years 4 months and 1 day. He was a farmer and had worked hard all his life, most of the time in the open. Except for a slight deafness his faculties were in normal condition. He enjoyed good health until a few weeks ago, when he began to fail rapidly. He is survived by five sons and one daughter, twelve granddaughters, thirteen grandsons and nineteen great-grandchildren.

SHIPPERS FAVOR

HIGHER RATES

Say Haise in Freight Tariffs Means Prosperity.

New York, Oct. 12.—Acting in harmony with four great brotherhoods of railroad employes, which voted a few weeks ago in this city to appeal to President Taft and the interstate commerce commission for fair play to the railroads in the matter of increasing freight rates, shippers all over the country are asking that the roads be permitted to advance rates.

Their position as expressed by resolutions adopted at conferences and by statements issued to the newspapers, is that the transportation business of the country shouldn't be the plaything of demagogues, and that an increase is necessary to enable the railroads adequately to handle a constantly growing traffic. Merchants have agreed that a fair increase of rates would bring increased prosperity to shippers, consumers and railroads.

Groups of manufacturers and merchants have pointed out that it is as unusual for shippers to favor increased rates as it is for union labor to back up the railroads; but they declare that they have decided to support the roads in the pending inquiry before the interstate commerce commission for the reason that the change would be of great potential advantage to the nation as a whole.

PICKS DEMOCRATS TO WIN CONGRESS

James T. Lloyd Expects Majority of Thirty-five.

DOESN'T FEAR ROOSEVELT

Chairman of Democratic Congressional Committee Says Ex-President Doesn't Hurt Their Chances.

New York, Oct. 12.—Chairman James T. Lloyd, of the Democratic congressional committee, was at the Waldorf, after a tour through most of the "close" states, from California to Maine, which has occupied his time since congress adjourned. Later he left for Washington.

"I have seen nearly all the candidates for congress in the close states," said Congressman Lloyd, "and while I haven't been in every district, I have seen enough and got figures that would indicate that the next house will be Democratic by a majority of thirty-five. From present indications this is a pretty safe estimate."

Predicted Maine Result.

"I was in Maine three weeks before the election and I anticipated the result there, except in the legislature, which I didn't think would go Democratic."

The general outlook is very good, indeed. There is going to be a very close contest in Indiana for the senate, but I think Beveridge will be defeated. In the congressional districts the Democrats will hold their own. Beveridge is going to find that Mary in the "blue clad cottage" isn't going to carry him through the polls on her shoulders. His hopes hang more on Roosevelt and what the latter will do for him than on anything else.

Thus far Roosevelt has not by any means hurt Democratic chances, but you never can tell what he may do in the future. However, he contradicted himself so much that I cannot see how he can be of much value to his party."

The platform at Ossawatimie is far more radical than anything Bryan ever put before the public, or supported. Yet, when Roosevelt got to Saratoga he endorsed the Payne-Aldrich bill and everything the Ossawatimie platform had denounced.

Where Gains Are Expected.

"The largest Democratic gains this year are going to be in the country between our two great ranges of mountains, principally in the Mississippi valley. The south will be just as solid as ever and in North Carolina the Republicans will lose the two members of congress they now have. Ohio will make some gains. The general impression of the Democrats of that state with whom I talked is that Harmon will win easily in the state."

"In Illinois Cannon has a very large majority, and the chances for a Democratic victory in his district are nothing like so good as in many other Republican strongholds."

"The issue this year, as I have been able to determine it, is hardly so much of an issue as it is a feeling of dissatisfaction with things generally. That which appeals more directly to most people is the high cost of living which is charged to the Republican party."

TROLLEY MEN STRIKE

Camden-Trenton Line Tied Up Pending More Pay.

Bordentown, N. J., Oct. 12.—The conductors and motormen of the Riverside Traction company, whose line runs from Camden to Trenton, have gone on strike.

The men demand more pay and the reinstatement of two men, one a conductor and the other a motorman, both old employees of the company. The strikers also ask for the dismissal of S. W. Rogers, superintendent of transportation, who, it is said, is responsible for the dismissal of the two men. No cars are running.

THE INDIA RUNNER.

You needn't ask us how Adam and Eve could be the progenitors of red, white, black, brown and yellow men, with red, white, black, brown or yellow hair. We give it up.

We have enough to do to try to figure out how all the kinds and colors of crows and quacks came down from those primitive pairs in Noah's ark.

Take the India-Runner duck, for instance. You've seen a penguin, that funny ducklike wild fowl that sits on its tail.

Well, the Indian so resembles it that duck quacks claim the penguin is its ancient pup, having been crossed with Pekin to increase the size. It comes in fawn and white and is certainly a funny little high stepper.

But that lofty mien is no bluff, for this quack can just hold her head high, for she has laid as high as 290 eggs a year, which looks all the other rubbernecks at laying and gives most of our world famous trap nested hens a black eye. The bird was brought from India to England sixty years ago, and our English cousins surely rubbered some to see it roll out the greenish globes. But it didn't become popular as a table duck, because Johnny Bull is death on white skinned birds. But when this duck with the golden hued carcass was served on this side there was a hue and cry for it to beat the band.

It was at once crossed with Rouen to improve its size, and, though this made a change in color and shape, its weight increased to ten and a half pounds per pair dressed. It makes a fine broiler, the hardy ducklings being raised in a brooder house like chicks and fed on the same ration, grow twice as fast and brings more per pound.

At ten weeks it weighs eight pounds to the pair. It eats one-third as much as the Pekin and on range forages three and three-quarters of its food.

It lays generally from April to August, but is a poor sitter.

DON'TS.

Don't be too sure you can tell the saying hen. Study them well before you kill or sell.

Don't let the sparrows eat your pigeon profit. One inch screen for plover's mean.

Don't put brooders away in a lousy, filthy condition or let them out in the weather to spoil.

Don't sell that incubator too soon because a hatch missed it might make good if you did what you should.

Don't forget your written description precedes the bird you ship. If you a poor rooster ship you make a bad slip and may expect some lip.

Don't imagine that long distance advertising brings that trade which is the source of solid prosperity. There is no place like home for steady business, and there is no medium like the home paper to bring trade to the man who is progressive and principled.

ROOSEVELT UP IN AN AIRSHIP

Scares Pilot by Waving His Hand to Crowd.

WAS UP OVER 3 MINUTES

Colonel Surprised His Attendants When He Accepted Aviator's Invitation—Declared It Was Buggy.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 12.—Well, the colonel did it, by George. He went up in the air. Like a good many others, he has succumbed to the temptations of flying. At the Kinlock aviation field, eighteen miles east of St. Louis, Mr. Roosevelt made his first flight with Arch Hoxsey. In a Wright biplane he circled the field twice and remained in the air three minutes and twenty seconds. When he came down to earth the colonel exclaimed that it was the bulkiest experience he had ever gone through. He hadn't expected to do it.

His Finest Experience.

"It was the finest experience I ever had," he shouted to the crowd of cheering thousands. "I'd liked to have stayed up an hour."

He shook hands with Hoxsey, thanking him for the ride, and then he disappeared in a cloud of dust. This was only one of dozens of interesting things the colonel did. He rushed and whizzed and flew about just like he used to do. St. Louis folks who attempted to follow his course gave it up as a bad job.

Hoxsey said he had to caution his passenger to keep his hands on the holding rail. On the turns Colonel Roosevelt began to wave his hands at the spectators and the aviator was afraid the former president's hands would catch a controlling cord.

When it comes to mixing business with pleasure you cannot surpass the colonel. He made three big speeches, and then motored out to the aviation field.

While he sat in the automobile with Governor Bradley, Arch Hoxsey, who had been flying, came over and spoke to the colonel quietly. The governor introduced him. "I'd like to have you for a passenger," murmured Hoxsey, and the colonel looked about and above. There was no wind and the conditions appeared to be right.

Suddenly he began to remove his coat. He doffed his dusty black sombrero.

"You're not going, are you, colonel?" asked Governor Bradley anxiously. The colonel looked about him. "By George, I think I will," he answered, and he stepped out of his motor car.

Hoxsey's biplane was nearby, and the colonel had reached it in a jiffy. Publisher Howland and his two sons, Earl and Harold, and Advertising Manager Hoyt rushed over. They couldn't believe their own eyes.

"Why, he told us he wouldn't go up," said Publisher Howland.

Was 100 Feet in Air.

The colonel devoted all his attention to Hoxsey and the jiggers that worked the plane. He sat on the left side of Hoxsey. Somebody gave him a cue, and the colonel put it on and he was ready for the whoop.

While an old soldier held the machine, Hoxsey tested the engine. He found that everything was all right and gave the signal to let go. The aeroplane rose gently and gradually to a height of 100 feet. As it rose it picked up more speed, and before he knew it Mr. Roosevelt and the aviator were swooping over the heads of the crowd. The biplane descended in a complete circle and made a long loop.

The colonel waved his hands to those beneath him. He called to them, but the hum of the motor choked his words. In three minutes and twenty seconds the plane glided back to its original position near the colonel's automobile. The crowd swarmed toward him.

He uttered exclamations that came so fast that you couldn't tell what he was saying. He kept "by George" and said "fine" at least a hundred times. He was so overwhelmed that he couldn't describe his sensations of being in the air.

"I went up in an American airship," he said, "with an American to handle it. It was fine."

WANTS TEXAS FOR HUSBAND

Millville, N. J., Girl Can't Find a Real Man in Home City.

Austin, Tex., Oct. 12.—Governor Campbell received a letter from Miss Lillian Allen, R. F. D. No. 2, Millville, N. J., asking him to pick out a husband for her.

She says: "I am a northern girl and am unable to find a real man here. I was informed that Texas is the state that has real men so have taken the liberty to write. I am a music teacher by trade; also a graduate from Millville school."

Killed by Fall at Funeral.

Pottsville, Pa., Oct. 12.—Frederick Fritzenberger of Philadelphia, ninety-seven years old, was called to Schuylkill Haven to attend the funeral of his daughter, Mrs. John E. Elman. After viewing the remains he tottered while descending a staircase and pitched headlong to the bottom. He sustained such injuries that his death soon followed.

BOY STRUCK BY TAFT AUTOMOBILE

Man in Front of Car, But Is Not Seriously Hurt.

Salem, Mass., Oct. 12.—Mrs. Taft was an anxious visitor at the Salem hospital, where Wilfred A. Crowell, the six-year-old son of William A. Crowell, of this city, lies, suffering from bruises and cuts received when he was struck by one of the White House automobiles.

The hospital authorities assured Mrs. Taft that the little boy was in no danger. They said he was merely bruised on the face and arm and that he would be sent home.

The accident occurred on Monday, when Mrs. Taft was returning from Boston.

According to Chauffeur Long, the automobile was running at a moderate speed through the eastern part of the city, when the boy suddenly ran from an electric car track upon the roadway and directly in front of the machine.

Long whirled his steering wheel so that the blow was a glancing one although the child was thrown against the curbstone and cut and bruised. The automobile was immediately stopped and the child picked up and hurried to the hospital.

DATE TO HEAR TRUST CASES

Tobacco and Oil Suits to Come Before Supreme Court Jan. 3.

Washington, Oct. 12.—When the supreme court of the United States met the tobacco cases under the Sherman anti-trust act were reassigned for argument on Jan. 3.

This was done at the request of the government. The cases had been set for argument on Nov. 14.

The Standard Oil case, set for rehearing on Nov. 14, also was reassigned for hearing on Jan. 3.

The corporation tax cases also were set for rehearing on Jan. 3.

All these cases were heard at the last term, but were reassigned because of the desire to have decisions on the questions by a full bench. On the belief that the membership would be complete this fall arrangements were made to have the cases heard in November.

Assuming that the successors to the late Chief Justice Fuller and Justice Moody will be named by the Christmas holidays all the cases were reassigned by suggestion of the government.

The boycott and contempt cases arising out of the injunction proceeding in the District of Columbia against the American Federation of Labor by the Rock Stone and Rance company of St. Louis were reassigned by the supreme court of the United States to be heard on Jan. 16.

Each dwelling should be a thing of itself, not containing any one except the family whose home it is. Many a wife and husband have been separated, innocent children made to suffer and sometimes murder done because of a man or a woman going to live with a family of which they were not a part.

The Browns were a humdrum couple, content with each other and their home. When it was decided to have a governess for their children Miss Olive Markam was selected for the purpose. Miss Markam was pretty, and Mrs. Brown should have hesitated before taking her into the sheepfold. Not that the wolf was likely to harm her lambs, but there was a sheep in the family who, though not very tender, was liable to fall a prey to the newcomer. Neither Mrs. Brown nor her husband gave the entrance of Miss Markam into the family a thought so far as danger was concerned. Neither had ever known a pang of jealousy.

Mr. Brown was a pudgy, baldheaded man of forty-two; Mrs. Brown was a tall, angular woman but a year his junior. Neither supposed that the other could attract any one else even if so inclined. The governess was but twenty and replied to Mr. Brown's remarks with "Yes, sir," and "No, sir," as a person of an entirely different generation. And yet there was danger in her presence at the Browns'.

Mr. Brown had his own sleeping room, where he might get a quiet night's rest without being disturbed by the rest of the family. One night he awakened from a bad dream and could not go to sleep again. After vainly endeavoring for an hour or more to do so he got up, put on a dressing gown and went downstairs to get a biscuit and a glass of wine, hoping that by thus drawing the blood to his stomach he might return to slumber. He took great care to move softly that he might not awaken any of the family and on reaching the dining room refrained even from striking a light. He found what he wanted in the sideboard and, having partaken of it, was about to return to his room when he felt his hand clasped by a softer one.

Mr. Brown knew Mrs. Brown's hand very well. It was not soft; it was not even round. On the contrary, it was hard and bony. A current shot quickly up his arm and entered—his heart?

no, his self esteem, exciting that natural gratification a man who has passed middle life feels in attracting a young woman. The conviction that the governess had fallen in love with him popped into Mr. Brown's head and created there a disturbance at once delightful and terrifying. On the one hand was his home, his wife, his children; on the other, the siren, if he listened to the one, the wreck of the others was sure to follow. But had he the power to resist? Mr. Brown felt in his bones that he had not.

All this flashed through Mr. Brown's mind in the two or three seconds that he held the hand in his. Then it was withdrawn, and without sound or farewell the owner passed. With a wildly beating heart he stood, listened, hoped for further manifestation, feared he would receive it, groped for it with outstretched hands, was disappointed, comforted, troubled, pleased and thrilled all at the same time. At last, being convinced that the owner of the hand had gone, he returned to his room.

Mr. Brown lay awake till daylight, a prey to different emotions, then went to sleep and dreamed that he and the governess were floating down a river whose banks were covered with luxuriant foliage and overhung with flowers. She was the same woman, but transfigured to one of transcendent beauty. He bent over the side of the boat and saw his own face reflected in the water. To his surprise, his hair had come back on his head with no gray streaks in it, and his eye had regained the fire of youth.

Then he took her hand in his—the same hand he had held before. There was the same pleasurable thrill without the dread of consequences. The wife of his bosom, so far as his dream was concerned, had no existence; his children were not yet born. He drifted in paradise.

He was awakened by a shake and the words: "Elisha, are you going to sleep all day? Get up!"

It was Mrs. Brown, in dishabille and forming a dreadful contrast with the companion of his dream. Mr. Brown lay a few moments trying to get used to the returned reality, then slowly got out of bed, forced himself into his clothes and went down into the dining room. The family were at breakfast. His oldest daughter, aged fourteen, looked at him mischievously.

"How did you like the ghost, papa?" she asked, her eyes dancing with fun.

"What ghost?"

But he knew before she told him that she had got up in the night for a glass of water, heard him leave his room, followed him and, with better eyes than his, clasped his hand.

"My dear," said Mr. Brown to his wife after breakfast and before going downtown, "I've been thinking that the children will get on better going to school than taught by a governess."

"Perhaps you're right, pa. Anyway, we can't keep Miss Markam after the holidays. She's going to be married."

"Married?"

"Yes, to a very nice looking young fellow, a year older than she. Same difference as between us, dear."

Candidate Brodbeck Violates

First Pledge of Campaign

Failed to Make Affidavit to Disprove Charges of Party Irregularity, as Demanded by William H. Long, Who Resigned as Democratic County Chairman—Confidence of Voters Shattered.

A. R. Brodbeck, of Hanover, is the Democratic candidate for congress from the Twentieth district of Pennsylvania, embracing York and Adams counties. He promises, if elected, according to an appeal addressed to the voters of the district, to vote against Cannon and Cannonism. He promises to vote against monopolies and trusts. He promises to vote against the high cost of living. He promises to vote against governmental extravagance. He promises to vote for tariff revision downward. He promises to vote for the farmer and laboring man's interest. It is fresh in the memory of every voter in this community that Mr. Brodbeck, a little more than a month ago, promised W. H. Long that he would do certain things if Long would accept the chairmanship of the Democratic committee of York county. Mr. Brodbeck made this promise to Mr. Long in the presence of Mayor Jacob E. Weaver, of York, and H. N. Gitt, of Hanover, on the day the Democratic county committee met at York. Mr. Brodbeck promised Mr. Long that he would go before a notary public and make affidavit refuting certain charges that had been made reflecting upon his party loyalty and public service. To quote from Mr. Long's own story of the meeting in the mayor's office:

"We were ushered into the mayor's private office and there we met Mr. Brodbeck. I said to him after we had shaken hands: 'Will you make these affidavits?' His reply was: 'Yes, I will make them.'"

Just how faithfully Mr. Brodbeck lived up to his promise is best told by Mr. Long, in his letter, resigning the chairmanship of the county committee, under date of August 20, 1910. Mr. Long says in part:

"In view of the refusal of Mr. A. R. Brodbeck, the Democratic candidate for congress, to comply with a promise he made in the presence of competent witnesses; namely, to make affidavit that certain charges of a public character which are in current circulation against him, are not true, and thus place me, as chairman, in a position to make the defense for him, which the position demands, therefore, in view of the matter above set forth, I do most respectfully resign the office of the county chairman."

It will be seen from this that not only has Mr. Brodbeck broken the very first promise he made at the beginning of his campaign, but he has shattered the confidence of the men whom he had relied upon to assist him in his fight. By his refusal to make good his promise to Mr. Long he has allowed a matter to become public property which, to say the least, places him in a very embarrassing position before the public. Here, then, is the record of a man, who, at the very outset, violates a sacred pledge made to one of his personal and political friends, made in the secret conference room behind closed doors. The voters of the Twentieth district will do well to study these facts. Mr. Brodbeck is appealing for the votes of the citizens of this community, promising them that he will do all things for them if they will send him to Washington as their representative. After violating his first promise to one individual, can anyone believe for a moment that Mr. Brodbeck would fulfill the thousand and one promises he has made to all the voters of York and Adams counties? If the confidence in Mr. Brodbeck reposed in him by Mr. Long, was so shattered as to compel Mr. Long to relinquish the duties of county chairman, giving his reasons therefor, what can Mr. Brodbeck hope to expect from the voters of the entire district? Does he believe, that he can convince them that their interests would be safe in his hands at Washington? What effect will it have upon them, no matter how many promises he may make? What will he have to say to them by way of explanation for having violated his promise to Mr. Long? Mr. Brodbeck has refused, refused steadfastly to clear up the imputations made against his past record as a citizen and public servant of this community. Do the voters of this district believe that such a man should receive the plaudits and the support which would place him in the most responsible position it is in their power to give. What will the merchant, the manufacturer, the farmer, the laborer have to say about it? Will they be content to place such a man in charge of their affairs at the national capital when they have his record before them? The voters of the Twentieth district want a man to represent them in the national legislature in whom they have implicit faith and one whose word is law, who believes a public office is a public trust.—York Dispatch, Oct. 10, 1910.

GOOD AND POOR COWS.

After the Man Rather Than the Cattle Marks the Merit Standard.

The good cow is an investment. The amount we shall be able to make out of her depends entirely upon how much of feed and care and cow sense we put into her. She may be bred over so well and be capable of doing a great and profitable work, but if her ways have fallen into the hands of an ignorant, stingy or careless man her birthright of royalty is reduced to scrub conditions. All this for the good cow.

The poor cow is a poor cow, and that is all there is to it, and we need waste no saltwater on her. But I believe in defense of her, she not being a freeloader, that always somewhere in the early pedigree of the poor cow is written:

ten the stigma of a poor, scrub man. Many an intrinsically good cow is handicapped by such an owner, who is limiting the scope of her possibilities. If it were possible for the cow for a short time to change places with the man and she run the dairy on lines of her ability and experience and weed out and feed up her former owner what changes would we have in some dairy matters—what an uplift would come to the business! It is the man rather than the cows that marks the standard of the herd.

Take, for instance, the pure bred Holstein cow De Kol Queen La Polka II., which has recently smashed all world's cow production records up to thirty days. It is not at all unreasonable to assert that with indifferent care or neglect she would never have developed into the magnificent milk producer she has proved herself to be.

De Kol Queen La Polka II. is the property of Clayton S. Sisson of Sherburne, N. Y. Mr. Sisson is an enterprising young Holstein breeder and dairy farmer who had the good fortune to purchase this animal about a year ago for less than $200 from an owner who did not begin to appreciate her real worth. She is valued at $10,000 today, while an offer has been made of $2,500 for her few weeks old male calf, and it is doubtful if $5,000 would buy it.

De Kol Queen La Polka II.'s record is: One day's milk, 124 pounds; seven days' milk, 841.8 pounds; thirty days' milk 3,376.5 pounds; seventy days' butter, 35.38 pounds, and thirty days' butter, 145.13 pounds. She is six years old and weighs about 1,500 pounds. She was milked four times a day during her test, and the average yield of fat in the milk was 3.41 per cent.

The roughage part of the ration during the first part of the test was about forty pounds of good corn ensilage, ten to fifteen pounds of mixed hay and about all the beets the cow would eat. The grain ration was an average of fifteen pounds per day of a mixture of the following proportions: 200 pounds of bran, 200 pounds dry distiller's grain, 250 pounds gluten meal, 100 pounds cottonseed meal, 100 pounds of hominy meal and some milk. During the last part of the test grass was substituted for ensilage and beets.

THE FLOCKMASTER

Pumpkins Good For Sheep.

Pumpkins are good feed for sheep in the fall of the year. When winter comes on and the pastures do not furnish enough feed to keep them thrifty and growing nicely begin feeding corn and fodder, cowpeas and clover hay and sometimes thrashed oats or sheep oats.

Starting a Flock.

In getting together a flock the farmer with little experience should work into the business gradually and cautiously by buying from six to twelve well bred ewes, which can usually be purchased for from $15 to $25 and upward, and the best ram that can be found at a reasonable price.

Stomach Worms.

American sheepmen perhaps suffer as much loss from stomach worms as from any other one cause. Old pastures are credited with the propagation of this parasite, but it is safe to assume that insufficient feeding or other negligence is responsible for much of the loss occasioned by the pest.

Value of Rape For Sheep.

Men who were fortunate enough to sow rape the past spring are going to reap large benefits from it from this time on. It has been used extensively among sheep breeders in every country where sheep are handled in large numbers, and it has been endorsed by a great many of our own experiment stations.

Sheep Repay Good Care.

Many farmers keep a flock of sheep because of their ability to renovate the soil and keep down weeds and sprouts, in both of which roles they are a demonstrated success. But the men who will make the most profit from their sheep are the best farmers, who will provide their sheep with comfortable and sanitary quarters and feed them the best that the farm affords.

Governor Hughes on the Grange.

Governor Hughes in his address at the New York state fair paid the Grange this worthy compliment: "Of all the organizations of citizens with which I have been privileged to come in contact during the past few years none has represented a more important interest or has been under more competent leadership than the state Grange. Its just influence with respect to the protection of our agricultural interests is conspicuously shown both in legislation and in administration."

SOIL FERTILITY DUE TO GRAZING HOGS.

Inasmuch as green crops suitable for hog feeding can be maintained in the south practically every month in the year, it is possible for the southern farmer to make more money than the northern farmer upon hog producing operations, and the profits are made in proportion to the green crops used. But in addition to making ready money on the hogs themselves the farmer who grows leguminous crops and grazes them off with hogs has a fertilizer factory on his own farm. In 1898 the Arkansas station grazed hogs upon areas of peanuts, chufas and soy beans. The following two years the land was planted in cotton and data collected to determine what effect this grazing might have upon cotton yields.

The effect upon the soil of growing a legume and then grazing it off with hogs is remarkable. For instance, in the case of soy beans and peanuts the increased yield of cotton was 44.6 and 61.1 per cent respectively. The effects of growing these crops and grazing them off does not stop with the cotton crop grown the year immediately following the grazing. The data show that the increase over the corn lot was still considerable in the second year.

Of course in the cases where peanuts and soy beans were used the increased cotton yields were not due entirely to the grazing. Part of the benefits were due to the fact that the crops were legumes, the effect of which would be to place nitrogen in the soil for the use of subsequent crops. But with the chufa pasture we have a case where the increased cotton yields can be attributed only to the grazing and the supplementary grain fed, as the chufa plant is not a legume. In this case the increased cotton yields for the average of the two years following the chufas was 20.9 per cent over the cotton crops which had followed a corn crop without being grazed off by the hogs.

The question is often asked, What is the best breed of swine for the south? The answer cannot be given by naming any one particular breed. There is no such thing as a "best" breed. One breed may be specially adapted for a certain purpose, while another may be better suited for a different object. The best breed for any particular farmer is usually the breed that he likes best.

The breeds of hogs are divided into two general classes, the bacon type and the lard type. The Yorkshire and the Tamworth breeds belong to the bacon type, while other breeds, as the Berkshire, the Poland-China and the Duroc-Jersey, belong to the lard type.

The Poland-China breed of hogs originated in Ohio. This breed is considered the ideal of the lard type of hog. The individuals are broad on the back, compact, low and dress a high per cent of marketable meat. The Poland-Chinas are good breeders and early maturers, but will not weigh as much as the Berkshires. The Poland-China is not as good as the Berkshire or the Duroc-Jersey in breeding qualities.—Department of Agriculture Bulletin.

The Dependable Mule.

Breeders of mules contend that they are less nervous and much easier broken to harness than horses. Kindness is the best policy in dealing with mules, and when properly handled they will work quietly and steadily and there is but little likelihood of their ever kicking. They will prove as dependable as horses when well broken and city mannered, and it is on very rare occasions that a team will scare and run away.

The larger the mule the better. Of course a large animal can stand more work than a small one, for one thing, and also a large mule usually possesses a better disposition than his smaller brother. It is the little mule that is apt to be ill tempered and vicious.

Raising mules for market has proved very profitable to many farmers in the past few years, as good, sound, young animals always bring a fancy price when offered for sale. Farmers who have large mares, perfectly sound and dark in color, could very profitably raise mules.

Tuberculosis in Cattle.

The prevention of tuberculosis in cattle consists simply in keeping tuberculous cattle or other animals away from the sound ones; in keeping tuberculous animals out of the pastures, sheds or stables where sound ones are kept, including exhibitions at fairs and cattle shows; in not feeding to calves or pigs or horses kept on the place the milk or milk byproducts from tuberculous cows and in not shipping sound cattle in cars that have not been previously thoroughly disinfected. All cattle that are purchased to go into sound herds should be bought from healthy or sound herds only.

Roosevelt on the Grange.

I am particularly glad to speak to the Grange, for I heartily believe in farmers' organizations, and we should all welcome every step taken toward an increasing co-operation among farmers. The importance of such movements cannot be overestimated, and through such intelligent joint action it will be possible to improve the market just as much as the farm.—Utica Grange Day Speech.

WHAT IS VINOL?

It Represents Twenty Years' Work of Two Eminent Chemists.

After twenty years of study two eminent French chemists discovered a method by which the alkaloids or medicinal elements of the cod's liver might be separated from the useless oil or grease, retaining all the good of cod liver oil and dispensing with the bad, as the oil has no medicinal value. These medicinal elements blended with tonic iron and a mild medicinal wine—make Vinol.

Vinol is not a secret medicine as its ingredients are printed on every bottle, and in all cases where the healing, strengthening influence of cod liver oil is needed, Vinol will give better results, for it contains all the curative oil but without the oil, and it is easily assimilated and acceptable to the weakest stomach.

For all rundown, weakened conditions, and to cure chronic coughs, colds and bronchial troubles, Vinol is unequalled. We sell it always with the understanding that if it does not do all we claim for it, we will refund the money paid us for it. People's Drug Store, C. Wm. Beales, proprietor, Gettysburg, Pa.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving remembrance of Mrs. Mary Cleveland who departed this life just one year ago, Oct. 12, 1910.

'Tis hard to break the tender cord
When love has bound the heart.
'Tis hard so hard to speak the words
Must we forever part.

Dearest loved one we have laid thee
In the peaceful grave's embrace,
But thy memory will be cherished
Till we see thy heavenly face.
By her husband.

Integrity Value

Integrity in all our dealings with the public has been our guiding principle since the establishment of our business over twenty-five years ago.

In the gathering of our immense stock for this Fall, as in the past, Value has been the object, as well as having in stock what the clientele of this community want. Our community extends to a radius of fifteen miles and over, which necessitates a full and well assorted stock.

We owe our success and growth to the confidence of our customers, brought about by the giving of Best Values and the way of giving them.

While we are doing a very unusual business for a town the size of Gettysburg, we are in a position of stock and values to do much more, and we ask those who are tempted to order from the many catalogues circulated through this county, whose values look glittering on paper, to investigate our stock. Buy from merchants that you know carry only good goods, and who are able and do sell as cheaply as good goods can be sold at, and with no transportation cost; and when there is disappointment in your purchase you can get at us personally, without expense for money back or exchange.

M. K. ECKERT,
Eckert's Store, Gettysburg

There will be held on Oct. 10-15 at Watonsville, in the beautiful Pajaro valley, in California, the "apple annual," as the yearly exhibition of the fruit in this particular locality is known. Watonsville is the center of the largest apple shipping section as well as the center of the largest single apple growing district in the world. Within a radius of a few miles are to be found more than a million trees, which will this year produce 3,000,000 boxes of fruit, or about 300,000,000 apples. At the exposition in question it is expected that there will be sixty carloads of exhibits, twenty being carload lots. A feature that has made the Watonsville show very popular and a splendid advertiser in the past is that apples were given away to the thousands of visitors, it being the view of the backers of the show that a luscious apple in the hand, or more particularly in the mouth, was a better booster than merely nicely printed pamphlets in a fellow's pocket or under the library table. A new exhibit pavilion is being built as a permanent home for the "annual," and it is expected that about twelve and one-half acres of floor space will be occupied by the exhibits this season. While the show has up to the present been a strictly state affair, it is possible that next season it may be opened to competition from the whole country, as the Watonsville people, whose slogan is "The apple show where apples grow," believe that with their New-Town Pippins and Belleflowers they can meet all comers.
